Will your next project be climate ready™?

The incidence of extreme weather conditions is expected to increase and with it a greater demand will be placed on the diminishing and limited resources of energy and water. It is vital that building products are designed to meet the challenge of these changing conditions and are climate ready.

Horiso External Venetian Blinds is a climate ready product providing versatile and effective solar control. It maximises natural daylight while reducing glare, thermal gain and energy consumption.

Horiso products are available in a range of sizes, finishes and colours to suit your design specifications. Visit www.horiso.com for more information.
